Comfort and Beauty combine in these George Stoddard Homes where GAS does the 4 big jobs...

This beautiful Colonial, designed by George Stoddard for John E. Ryan, Jr., is located at The Highlands, exclusive Seattle residential park. It is an all-gas home, designed for living in the modern manner. Gas heats the house, heats the water, does the cooking, operates the refrigerator. Good design, Colonial charm, blend with the modern desire for convenience and comfort in this fine house.

George Stoddard's own home is in a lovely wooded section of Seattle. For his own home, too, Mr. Stoddard chooses automatic gas house heating, automatic gas water heating and a modern gas range. The simplicity of good design here creates a house with excellent proportions in perfect harmony with its setting.

GAS DOES the big housekeeping jobs in these and other homes designed by George Stoddard for Seattle families who want beautiful, livable homes. He says, "More and more people demand homes where living is carefree, where automatic, dependable household equipment relieves them of routine duties such as furnace tending, from checking hot water supply, from fussing with a temperamental range and refrigerator. That's why so many of the homes we design are gas-equipped. Modern automatic gas heating units, refrigerators, water heaters and ranges supply the comfort and leisure everyone wants—and at a small installation and operating cost." Nothing equals gas for clean heat, for automatic water heating, for silent refrigeration, for perfect cooking. That's why in Seattle, as throughout the country, the swing is to GAS for housekeeping's big jobs! For a home designed for living—specify gas equipment for your home!
